Statement of Proposed Research:

This statement must be confined to pages three and four of this application. Proposals should be written in clear, simple language that can be understood by a broad, multi-disciplinary committee. Members of the selection committee usually are not trained in your specialized field of study. These funds are not intended to support senior thesis research. If you are working on a project that is closely related to your research mentor, you will need to distinguish what you propose from their work. Proposals should include:

- 1) an issue or question to be investigated,
- 2) brief background of the issue,
- 3) a description of the project methodology,
- 4) plan and timeline for completing proposed project,
- 5) and an explanation of the project's significance.

Comments from the faculty mentor are extremely useful in evaluating proposals.

Please briefly describe your evaluation and support of this proposed project. Please attach an additional sheet if needed.

I have read this research proposal and believe the proposed research is both feasible and worthwhile. This student-proposed research is distinguishable from my own ongoing research. If it is funded, I agree to oversee the project, to help the student fulfill the obligations of the grant, to be available for periodic consultation or training and to monitor the progress of the research.

Human Subjects and Animal Subjects Approval

Are you working with human subjects?

It is essential to apply early for Human Subjects approval so that you will have enough time to take and pass the test administered by the University of Arizona Human Subjects Protection Program office and have your proposal reviewed before you begin your research project. You should begin this process when you submit your grant proposal so that you will have clearance before you begin your research this summer. If you will be working with human subjects in any capacity you will need human subjects clearance. You should include a statement in your proposal saying that you have secured approval or that you are under consideration. The University of Arizona has an Assurance on file with the Federal Government that requires a review of research with human subjects by the Human Subjects Protection Program office. Please contact the Human Subjects Protection Program office located at 1618 E. Helen Street. The telephone number is 626-6721.

Are you working with animal subjects?

It is essential to apply early for Animal Subjects approval so that you will have enough time to take and pass the test administered by the University of Arizona Animal Studies unit. Before you conduct your research you must complete training in Laws and Regulations, and Introduction to Animal Hazards, which you will find on the web site www.iacuc.arizona.edu/training. You should begin this process when you submit your grant proposal so that you will have clearance before you begin your research this summer.

Clearance from Human Subjects and Animal Subjects (if necessary) _____

For each category, explain in as much detail as you can, how you intend to spend the funds. Requests for supplies available through departmental resources are inappropriate. This grant does not support travel to a conference to present results of the research. Equipment purchased through this program must not be readily available on campus and remains property of the university.

Budget (not to exceed $1500)
