You are invited to participate in a study exploring the management strategies of different countries during the COVID-19 outbreak.

The study is being conducted by the International Society for Quality in Health Care (ISQua), the Italian Network for Safety in Health Care (INSH), and the Australian Institute of Health Innovation (AIHI), Macquarie University.

Responses have so far been received from health professionals in more than 63 countries.

If you choose to participate, you will be asked questions about management of the COVID-19 outbreak in your country. Your opinions will be sought regarding the approach taken by your country and your healthcare organisation to pandemic preparedness and media communication.

You will also be asked about acute hospital organisation, public health/primary health organisation, personal protective equipment, staffing and training, and systems of intensive care.

The survey will take approximately 10 minutes to complete. Your responses will remain anonymous.
Thankyou in advance.

Click here for survey link.

Visit our website aihi.mq.edu.au

The Australian Institute of Health Innovation (AIHI) at Macquarie University conducts world-class research with national and international research communities, governments, policymakers, providers of health services, managers, clinicians, patients and the community. Our work underpins health reforms and systems improvement, providing new tools, perspectives and evidence to help stakeholders who are interested in making the health system more effective, efficient and productive. Our overarching aim is to produce new, high quality research evidence to support change, prevention and improvement.
The University has the right to alter the content or impose terms and conditions in relation to a program at any time.