Early Christianity Papyri Research Donations

MACQUARIE University

Papyri from the rise of Christianity in Egypt (PCE) is a major forthcoming Cambridge University Press publication that is a collaborative research project by scholars at Macquarie University over several decades led by Professor Edwin Judge. The publication collates and identifies all the papyrus manuscripts that relate to and illuminate the rise of Christianity in Egypt, including the earliest surviving records of the New Testament.

We are appealing for urgent funding (tax deductible) to procure, scan and print all the images of these ancient manuscripts for the Cambridge University Press publication, as well as for further research in the area of the New Testament papyri.

The Cambridge publication and the ongoing New Testament papyri research undertaken at Macquarie will have great importance on our understanding of the birth of Christianity and it's influence on the Roman Empire.

Donations over $2 to Macquarie University are tax deductible and 100% of every gift will be directed to the purpose specified.
